MEN'S SHIRTS MADE TO MEASURE.

First Floor, Rear.

THE Little Custom Shirt Room has been rebuilt and newly decorated for the reception of these new Spring shirrings and the Opening of the Spring Campaign.

The array of fabrics is quite the best we have ever presented. Hundreds of new patterns—no two of them alike—are shown. They represent the foremost Scotch, English and French manufacturers of fine woven madras, Russian cords, zephyrs, French batistes and similar weaves.

In the remodeled display room and the bettered facilities in our workrooms on the premises we have a perfect shirt-making organization and can guarantee prompt and most satisfactory service. In the making of Shirts with collars attached a custom organization finds its hardest test. We will be pleased to have you judge the work of our shirt-makers by garments of that character. The price range for Shirts-to-measure:

$2.49, $2.94, $3.44, $3.94, $4.44, $4.94 and $7.24—
from 20 per cent. to 30 per cent. less than equally good garments command elsewhere.

MEN'S SOFT AND DERBY HATS: SPRING STYLES ARE READY.

Second Floor, Rear.

These for men who want standard quality headwear—with nothing to pay for a label:

Hats at $1.88, $2.49 and $3.49.

The Hat at $1.88 is your specialty hatter's $2.50 grade, that one at $2.49 is his $3.50 grade and the one at $3.49 he matches for $5.00.

So far as the quality is concerned, all the difference between his Hat and the Macy-labeled Hat is in the label. The fur felt bodies, the trimmings and the blocks are alike.

Yet men are prone to make puns about extravagance in the Hats women-folk wear.

MEN'S READY-TO-WEAR SUITS REDUCED.

Second Floor, Rear.

At $9.96. Value $14.75. Sack Suits made of all wool chevots and worsteds; coats cut full and long, have hand-felled collars and deep vents; tailored in keeping with the price they commanded originally.

At $14.75. Were $17.75 and $19.75. This is a clearance group of about 150 Suits—both single and double-breasted models, made of pure worsteds, lined with serges; coats are long cut and finished with deep vents and hand-felled collars; regular prices were $17.75 and $19.75.

MUST LIVE ON $9 A WEEK.

Queer Plight of Man With Sick Wife Who Earns a Salary of $100.

"This is the most interesting sociological case that has ever come to my notice," said Magistrate Cornell in the West Side court yesterday, when Myron L. Banker, a clerk at the Fort Lee ferry, had explained why Mrs. Banker was an inmate of the City Home on Blackwell's Island while Banker himself was enjoying a salary of $10 a week.

Banker was in court on the complaint of H. J. Tracy, an inspector of the Department of Charities. Tracy said that Banker had been informed that the department could not continue caring for Mrs. Banker and that she would have to be removed. Banker, he said, had been told of several homes where he could probably get her accommodated—one of them being the Lincoln Home. Banker had succeeded in getting Mrs. Banker to Blackwell's Island.

Banker told the Magistrate that he had sent his wife to the City Home last April as a last resort.

"She was stricken with paralysis five years ago," he continued, "and though I then had a little money saved up, it went when doctors and nurses were paid. Then I borrowed $500, which was also spent, and I have been paying $4 a week on it. I could get no one within my means to care for Mrs. Banker, since she needed almost constant attention, and after trying to get her into many institutions in the city, through a friend I got her into the City Home.

"I was notified by the Charities Department that she would have to be removed and a woman clerk in the office told me that unless she was removed at once the city would send her to my house. I have only a small furnished room and it was impossible for me to care for her there. At the Lincoln Home they told me they would care for her at the rate of $7 a week, payable in advance. As I earn only $10, and pay $4 a week on the debt, I didn't see how I could pay $7 to the Lincoln Home and keep myself on the $7 that would be left me. If I can get her into some place where I can pay $4 a week I am perfectly willing to contribute to her maintenance.

A representative of the Corporation Counsel said he thought Banker should pay at least $5 and that if he would he had no doubt that the patient would be admitted to the Lincoln Home.

Banker said that recently his wife had a second stroke of paralysis and he thought it inadvisable to remove her from Blackwell's Island.

Magistrate Cornell ordered him to pay $5 a week. It was agreed that if Mrs. Banker was too ill to leave Blackwell's Island she should remain there, and the $5 will go to the city. Otherwise it will be paid to the home to which she is sent.

Banker was paroled in the custody of Magistrate Cornell's probation officer.

JURY DISAGREE IN OPEN COURT.

Of Two Minds About the Fit of a Coat That Figures in Theft Charge.

The fit of an overcoat may have something to do with deciding whether George Bardalmas, an engineer, stole a motor cycle from William H. Pardon of 117 East 121st street. Bardalmas, who is a member of the Bedford avenue, Brooklyn, Baptist Church, and of a Republican district club, was put on trial yesterday before Judge Cowing in Grand Sessions.

Pardon said that one day in November Bardalmas came to his store and said he wanted to buy the motorcycle, which Pardon had advertised for sale. Bardalmas, according to Pardon, took off a tan colored overcoat and said that he would try the machine. He took it out of the store, jumped on it and rode off. He never came back for his coat.

Assistant District Attorney Marshall said he would prove that the coat belonged to Bardalmas. He showed the coat. Also Levy, counsel for Bardalmas, jumped up and said the coat never belonged to the defendant.

"Then let him put it on," said Mr. Marshall. "If it doesn't fit him, why will let him go right now."

"Agreed," said Mr. Levy.

Bardalmas had the coat put on.

"A fine fit," said Mr. Marshall, smoothing the shoulders.

"Rotten," said Mr. Levy.

"Fits him pretty good," said one juror.

"No, it doesn't," said another.

"Fits—yes," said a third.

"Short in the arms," said another.

In the overcoat pocket was a "Heart and Color" badge, Bardalmas said he had no use for such a badge, being a Republican.

The case will go to the jury to-day.

KNIVES AT UNION MEETING.

110 Stitches Needed to Patch Up Electrician's Wounds.

James Enright, an electrician of 173 West 102d street, was arraigned in the Yorkville police court yesterday charged with assault at a meeting of the Electricians' Union, which was held Wednesday night in the Teutonia Assembly Rooms at Third avenue and Sixteenth street.

There was an election of delegates and a bitter partisan feeling was developed. At the close of the meeting Enright and Henry Olsen, who lives at 428 East Sixty-fourth street, got into a fight over the election. Some of the members said afterward that both men had knives in their hands during the fracas.

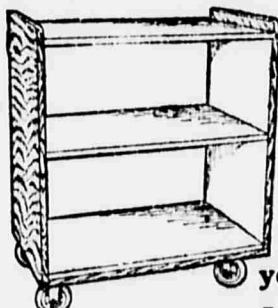

Olsen finally fell to the floor with numerous cuts on his face and head.

Enright made for the street door and ran down Third avenue, with a crowd of the electricians after him. He turned into Fifteenth street with the crowd of pursuers shouting after him. Policeman Perkins arrested him at Irving place.

An ambulance took Olsen to Bellevue Hospital, and the surgeons were obliged to use 110 stitches in closing up the wounds. The injured man was unable to appear in court and Magistrate Barlow held Enright for examination until Olsen is able to appear.
